A LAWN WATERING EXPERIMENT WITH NOLTE’S COHERENT STRUCTURED WATER UNIT

April 19, 2012

We were interested to see what would happen if we watered our lawn with a structured water unit.

This picture was taken before watering with the unit. The grass was totally dry, and crisp underfoot and had only been rain watered.

April 22, 2012

Then the lawn was watered for an hour on April 20, and an hour on April 21.

The picture to the right was taken the morning of April 22, 2012 with no additional watering on this day.

April 25, 2012

This final picture was taken a few days later the morning of April 25, 2012.

The lawn had received no additional watering since April 21, 2012 and has continued to green up beautifully and come alive! Thanks Clayton!